History

Intercontinental and Toyota Cup

Between 1960 and 1968, the International Cup was a competition endorsed by UEFA and CONMEBOL and contested between the winners of the European Champions' Cup and the South American Copa Libertadores. The system of play was a home-and-away series, decided by points only (the same format used by CONMEBOL to determine the winner of the Copa Libertadores final until 1987). Because of this format, a third match was needed when both teams were tied on points.

From 1969 to 1979, the Intercontinental Cup continued as a two-leg competition between the UEFA and the CONMEBOL club champions. However, it adopted the European standard method to decide the winner by adding the goals of both matches to the aggregate score.

As of 1980 and until 2004, the competition was held as a single match in Tokyo and Yokohama, Japan. It was called the Toyota Cup, named after its sponsor.

FIFA Club World Cup

The first FIFA Club World Cup was held in 2000 in Brazil with the participation of the club champions of all six confederations (AFC, CAF, CONCACAF, CONMEBOL, OFC and UEFA). In addition to those six teams, two additional competitors were invited: Real Madrid from Spain as the Toyota Cup winner of 1998 and the Brazilian host team, Corinthians, who went on to win the trophy.

In 2005 the Toyota Cup merged with the FIFA Club World Cup. This competition has since then been played under the auspices of FIFA and between the club champions from the 6 Confederations (UEFA's and CONMEBOL's representative entering the competition in the semifinals). As from 2007 the host's top team has also participated.

In 2007, the Japanese league winner was to be included to represent the host country but since a Japanese team won the AFC Champions League, the highest placed non Japanese team of the AFC Champions League played the play-off for quarter-finals with the OFC representative
